Denglisch (German spelling) or Denglish (English spelling) is a portmanteau of the German words Deutsch and Englisch (English). The term is used in all German-speaking countries to refer to the increasingly strong influx of macaronic English or pseudo-English vocabulary (and other features of the language such as grammar and orthography) into ...

Franglais (French: [fʁɑ̃ˈɛ̃ʒ]; also Frenglish / ɛ̃ˈfʁɛ̃ʒ / ɛ̃ˈfʁɛ̃ʒ /) is a French portmanteau word referring initially to the pretentious overuse of English words by Francophones, and subsequently to refer to the phenomenon of diglossia or the macaronic mixture of the French (français) and English (anglais) languages.
